Irate Clergy Promise Fight

Vow All-Out Battle To Clean Up Steubenville Vice Rings.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 2—A group of crusading clergymen promised today to "pursue to the end" their demands for police powers to fight crime and corruption which they said were rampant here.

"We have definite plans for carrying out our fight to rid this city of crime, but right now I can't divulge all of them," said Rev. Robert K. Russell, president of the Ministerial Association here.

Russell was one of 11 ministers who yesterday petition city council to appoint them as special policemen, "empowered to recruit veterans," to fight crime.

For the present, he said, the ministers were seeking in a "legal way" to have city council delegate them deputy sheriff powers.

Mum On Further Plans

"Just what we will do if they refuse this or take no action of their own to clean up the town, I can't say," Russell added.

There was some doubt in local legal circles whether council had the power to deputize, but Russell declared he believed they could be appointed under an ordinance stating an emergency existed.

Although the next council session is not scheduled until Nov. 12, council president Stanley Slee said if a quorum of councilmen would agree to attend, he would call a special session, probably for Monday.

Three persons have been slain in this town of 40,000 in the past two weeks, but Russell said only one had any connection with the ministers' demand.

Remainder of Robbery Haul; Identified as Writer of Suicide Note.

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 2—Dallas police today pieced together the story of an attractive 26-year-old woman who walked into the department yesterday, unrolled $231 in currency from her brunette curls and told Detective Captain Will Fritz that it was part of $700 taken in a Mobile, Ala. restaurant robbery Thursday.

Fritz said that she gave her name as Evelyn Cornish Globaker. A woman by that name disappeared from an Atlanta, Ga. tourist home Oct. 19, leaving behind a tear-stained note and a marriage license torn to shreds. She had been married Sept. 4.

Fritz said he was convinced of the woman's identity. He said she had described the robbery in the same way it was described to him by Mobile police in a telephone conversation.

Later the young woman, who was dressed in red-top boots and slacks and claimed to be a former University of Oklahoma co-ed told a reporter of the Dallas Morning News and Detective Sergeant Jimmy Bohart that she came to the Dallas police because she was "tired of playing tag."

She said that two hours after the Mobile robbery she was stopped by two detectives as she boarded a bus. She "outtalked" them, she said, and they let her go.

500 Youngsters Turn Out In Costume To Try For Prizes

By ARTHUR B. MYERS

The police department's children's masquerade parade and party was held last night after a one day delay, but the Halloween spirit was still there and more than 500 youngsters showed up in costumes varying from a fairy godmother to a former Austrian paperhanger.

Several thousand Marionites lined West Center, North Main and East Fairground street, along the route of the parade. It started at West Center and Prospect streets at 7:30 p. m. and, led by a state patrol and city police motorcycle escort, headed for the fairgrounds.

The Buckeye Aerie No. 337 of Eagles band was at the head of the column. Following them were first graders and the other grades followed in order. A volunteer group from the Harding High School band brought up the rear of the grade school contingent, and led the high school masqueraders.

Grandstand Filled

Some time before the parade arrived at the fairgrounds the grandstand there was full. Cars jammed the streets of the entire northside vicinity.

Several feats of skill were performed along the way by the kids. One boy walked from the starting point of the parade to the fairgrounds on stilts. A four-legged ten-feet long dinosaur made the entire trip. The costume was of burlap stretched over a cleverly constructed frame. Robots were plentiful, and some of the square-cut, metal and paper contraptions were cumbersome and heavy to be carried for anything more than a short stroll. Uncle Sams were there en masse. The season was celebrated by pumpkin costumes, the larger of which were several feet in diameter. Several youngsters came as corn shocks. One came as a four-foot cigaret.

Father Time showed up in the first grade group and such widely assorted characters as Pricilla Alden, the Gold Dust twins and the Batman rubbed shoulders. To make the night complete, for former G.I.'s, Kilroy was there.

The OPA was praised and ridiculed by various costumes, most outstanding features of which were signs prominently expressing the opinion of the [illegible]

For Fair Pay, Good Schools

TEACHERS in the public schools have always been underpaid, at least during the last few decades when a movement to establish wages and salaries generally on a scale intended to assure a higher standard of living has steadily gained ground. This movement has brought about substantial results in nearly all fields of employment, but not in the teaching profession. Teachers have been granted small pay increases now and then, but never has the scale been raised in proportion to the salaries and wages received by employes in other classes of service. Certainly teachers' pay never has been commensurate with the vital importance of the service they perform and the preparation they must make to qualify for their duties.

As far back as memory takes us, we can recall that the public and its official representatives have recognized and deplored the unjust inadequacy of pay in the teaching profession. But no remedial action has ever been taken, which calls to mind the situation so aptly epitomized by Mark Twain when he wrote, "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it."

But now, in this era of extraordinary inflation, with the school salary problem vastly more serious than at any time in history, there is good reason to believe that something is to be done. In fact, something must be done. Throughout the country the case is being appealed to the public, and in Ohio more than 70 communities, Marion included, will vote next Tuesday on special tax levies to give teachers at least a partial square deal. Not only that, the levies also will give the public itself a square deal by making sure that the schools will continue to have the best possible teaching talent.

If these levies are not authorized, it is certain that many of the present teaching corps will be forced into other fields of work in order to obtain pay proportionate to the high cost of living. For the same reason, competent young people who might otherwise enter the teaching profession will seek careers elsewhere and thus the public schools will soon deteriorate and become weak and ineffectual in the training of our boys and girls.

So a vote for better pay for teachers will be a vote for yourself, your children and their future.

This is, of course, addressed primarily to the people of Marion, who are paying their teachers salaries that rate among the lowest in the state of Ohio.

These teachers are your employes, not employes of the board of education, and the responsibility rests entirely with you, the people. The Marion school board has reached its maximum limit in payment of teachers' salaries, for the funds available for that purpose through regular taxation cannot be stretched further. The board knows pay should be increased in justice to the teachers and for the good of the schools, but is helpless unless provided with additional revenue. So the decision is up to you, the people, who will vote on the two-mill levy next Tuesday.

Your vote will determine whether you are to pay fair and just salaries to your employes, the teachers, and thus make certain that you and your community will continue to have good teachers, and that, of course, means good schools.

Remember, they are YOUR employes. They are entitled to the same consideration and adequate remuneration that you, no doubt, expect from your employer or business. Your response should be a vote for the two-mill levy.

Truman Shuns Party Rally

Stays Away from Affair To Uphold "Dignity of Office."

By The Associated Press

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 2—President Truman, quietly visiting at home, left Democratic battles for congressional seats in the hands of the party organization today after passing up a hometown rally last night because of what a close friend said was the President's desire to "uphold the dignity of his high office."

It was Independence Mayor Rogert T. Sermon, a close personal friend, who offered this explanation for the President's absence.

His was the first explanation offered publily in administration circles for Mr. Truman's campaign aloofness on his visit home, at the same time, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross continued to maintain that Mr. Truman still has no plans for a political address to the nation.

"No Longer Harry Truman"

Speaking to several hundred residents in the Memorial building where the President and Mrs. Truman will vote Tuesday, Sermon declared:

"He's no longer plain Harry Truman. He can't do the things he likes to do when he comes home. I think he would give his right arm to be here tonight, but there are some things he can't do. He must uphold the dignity of his high office."

While House Speaker Rayburn exhorted Jackson county people to uphold the President's hands by re-electing Senator Frank P. Briggs (D-Mo), Rep. C. Jasper Bell, and voting a first term to Democratic congressional nominee Enos T. Axtell, the President was at nearby Grandview, Mo., visiting his mother.

Rayburn came here from Washington yesterday aboard the President's special train.

While Press Secretary Ross sat on the platform during Rayburn's speech, the Chief Executive held to his previous decision not to attend the rally.

PAUL D. REYNOLDS DIES IN CLEVELAND

Marion Salesman, War Veteran, Stricken in Hospital.

Paul D. Reynolds, 48, of 275 South State street died at 7:30 a. m. today in Crile General hospital at Cleveland, where he was taken yesterday for treatment. While he had not been well for some time his condition did not become serious until a few days ago, and earlier this week he worked at the Lennon Furniture store where he was employed as a salesman.

A veteran of World War 1, he was active in veterans' organizations, serving at various times in local and state offices, and also took an active part in lodge affairs. Interested in hobbies, he was a collector of stamps and in March this year helped to organize the Marion Philatelic Society and at the time of his death held the office of secretary. He was a life member of Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks and of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. Eagles.

Mr. Reynolds' service in World War I was with the U. S. Navy. He enlisted May 28, 1918, at Parkersburg, W. Va., serving first at Norfolk, Va., and New York City. Prior to his discharge on Oct. 20, 1919, at Pittsburgh, Pa., he was aboard the U. S. S. Matsonia, a troop transport ship. He served as a hospital apprentice second and first class, and was discharged with a rating of pharmacist's mate, second class.

A member of the Marion Navy club, he served as historian of the club and at one time held the same office in the state organization. He was a charter member of Veterans Post No. [illegible], Veterans of Foreign Wars, and a member and past secretary and treasurer of the Order of Cooties, a veterans' organization.

LONDON PAPER SAYS U. S. HAS 96 A-BOMBS

London Paper Details Construction; American General Won't Comment.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 2—The Daily Express weapons expert, Chapman Pincher, says the United States has probably 96 atom bombs in its munitions stockpile, each 25 feet long, torpedo-shaped, powered with 100 pounds of plutonium in two lumps, and weighing about 900 pounds.

The article, which appeared yesterday under a banner head "Atom Bomb Secret Out," gave no source for its information. Pincher based his figure of 96 bombs on an assumed output of six bombs per month since the time of the Nagasaki bombing.

6 Made Per Month

Estimating that there were eight bombs in stock at the time Nagasaki was hit, minus two used in the Bikini experiments and assuming that the rate of production of six per month had not changed, Pincher arrived at his figure of 96.

Accompanying Pincher's article was an artist's conception of the bomb, with a cut away portion showing the working parts.. The sketch showed a conventional casing with four small fins and two "drogues" parachutes open at each end—which, Pincher said( operated to slow the descent for better control of a time fuse mechanism operating a detonator.

Fires Lump Against Another

The writer said the missile was detonated by an apparatus which fires one lump of plutonium at one end of the gun tube to the other lump at the opposite end. This, he said, necessitated the unusual length of the bomb—25 feet.

The article said the massive casing and protective lead covering for the gun tube comprised a large percentage of the bomb's 900 pound weight.

In Washington, Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the Manhattan Project which manufactured atom bombs during the war, said that under U. S. war department policy he could neither "confirm nor deny" any of the details of Pincher's article, but commented

Big Four Ministers Arrive in New York

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Big Four foreign ministers converged on this city today to decide the final peace terms for Germany's five defeated European satellites.

The four will meet Monday at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel on Park Avenue to complete and sign peace treaties for Italy, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland, working from drafts produced in the recent 21-nation Paris peace conference.

Later they may begin preliminary discussions of the treaty for Germany.

PEACE PRIZE TO HER? Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, 67-year-old Soviet diplomat, has been recommended for the $28,000 Nobel peace prize, according to the prize committee, because of her efforts to bring about peace between Finland and the Allies before Germany's surrender. If selected, Mme. Kollontay will be the first Russian citizen and the third women ever to receive the prize, which has been awarded since 1901. A commissar of public welfare in the first Soviet cabinet and a former lecturer on Marxism in the U. S. she has served in diplomatic posts since 1922.

X-RAY BOUGHT FOR HOSPITAL

Improved Modern Machine Ordered on $9,729 Bid of General Electric Co.

Purchase of a new General Electric X-ray machine for use at City hospital was announced today by Safety-Service Director E. O. Uncapher.

The machine was chosen from one of three bids received recently. The board of control, composed of Mayor Harry S. Dowler and Mr. Uncapher, met yesterday and, aided by City hospital officials, chose the General Electric machine as most suited to the hospital's needs.

Price of the machine, with accessories, is $9,729. A trade-in value of $750 for the hospital's old X-ray machine is included in that figure. The other bids were Kelley-Koett Manufacturing Co., Covington, Ky., $8,974; Picher X-Ray Corp., Cleveland, $10,446.

Delivery Time Set

Delivery on the machine must be made within six months, according to terms of the contract.

The machine now in use at City hospital is about 20 years old and is outmoded in many ways, according to the city Roentgenologist, Dr. A. E. Morrison. The new machine has a power of 200 milliamperes, compared to the old machine's 30. The difference represents a much faster exposure time, Dr. Morrison said, making

COAL INDUSTRY FEARS NEEDLING BY UMW UNION

Wildcat Walkouts Seen Putting Undue Pressure on Government.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—A coal industry official expressed apprehension today that the United Mine Workers may needle the government with a series of "unauthorized" strikes while John L. Lewis bargains for higher pay.

With the Lewis-government negotiations in recess until Monday, walkouts already have closed 42 mines employing 5,700 men in West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The solid fuels administration, which operates the mines, blamed the situation on failure of the workers to understand that their contract with the government is still in force. The SFA said union leaders are trying to get the men back into the pits by Monday.

Industry Has Fears

But John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal association, told a reporter:

"There is great fear in the industry that this is not just a misunderstanding."

He said an epidemic of such stoppages at the mines could block industry attempts to build up coal reserves, thus strengthening Lewis' hand at the bargaining table.

Lewis has said the contract is good until Nov. 20, under his procedure for terminating the agreement. A general strike then would be possible, since the miners traditionally don't work without a contract.

Take Weekend Breather

Representatives of Lewis and the government took a weekend breathing spell after their first sparring yesterday, which a federal official said left the situation in "delicate shape."

It was understood that:

(1) The UMW men, headed by vice president John O'Leary, presented figures to support their anticipated demand for a shorter work week without loss in take-home pay.

(2) Government negotiators, headed by Navy Capt. N. H. Collisson, coal mines administrator, just sat and listened.

(3) The showdown on whether terms of the contract permit the miners to reopen it was delayed.

The miners now earn a maximum of $75.25 in a 54-hour week. The basic work week is 35 hours, beyond which they receive time and one-half.

ABSENTEEISM INCREASE CAUSES FURTHER SLUMP

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 2—Increased absenteeism and the spread of complete walkouts by United Mine Workers members caused a further slump in West Virginia bituminous coal production today in the wake of their leaders' demands for a revised contract from the federal government.

An estimated 6,000 men have quit work in the Williamson and Kanawha fields, a check showed.

Plan Offers Low-Cost House Containing Modern Conveniences

YOUR HOME TODAY TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

A Practical One-Floor Design

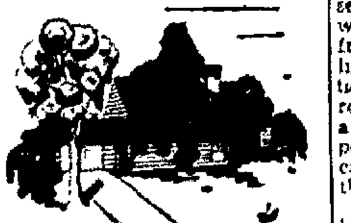
Economy in construction is again stressed in this one-story four-square house. Although the dimensions are only approximately 24x25 feet, the interior provides every comfort and convenience for the small family. The large bedroom and the small children's bedroom are convenient to the bathroom, but at the same time are thoroughly isolated from the active areas such as the kitchen and living room, insuring quiet for those at rest.

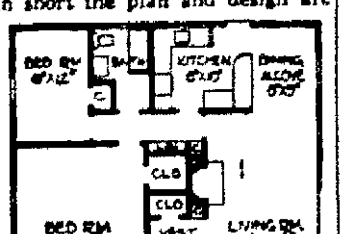
Particular attention has been given to the kitchen planning, and a counter is provided for breakfast or lunch.

The closet space would do credit to a far larger house, and offers ample accommodation for the belongings of the average small family.



In the designing of the interior, the modern trends toward built-in furniture and toward provision for the future expansion, have been carefully considered. The bedrooms lend themselves to complete built-in furnishings or to portable furnishings, and the living room can be two-thirds furnished with built-ins.

The exterior of the house can be finished in any kind of material which is available. The illustration shows the use of flush siding in wood or cement composition planking, but it may be of shingles, brick, stone or stucco. In short the plan and design are both flexible in regard to the material for the exterior walls.



YOUR HOME—11-2-46-B

Expansion is made feasible and practical by a slight change in the size of the master bedroom and the living room, so as to provide room for a stairway to the second floor. Two large dormer windows in the rear or in the front of the roof will furnish light and ventilation for additional bedrooms and another bathroom. The garage as shown has a flat shed-type roof, which will permit the main roof line to be carried out and greatly enlarge the house.

The entire floor plan for this house may be reversed from right to left and from front to back. This is quite an advantage when the owner wishes to feature certain exposures or landscaping of the property on which he intends to build.

The "awanyu" was sacred to the prehistoric Pueblo Indian of New Mexico. It was the plumed or feathered serpent, mythological guardian of springs.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Farmhouse Floors

Q.: We have recently purchased a farmhouse, which is old but in good condition. What should we do with the floors? Some are wood colored, and some are painted. The boards are about four or five inches wide. We plan to take off the paint.

A.: I make the guess that the floors are of soft wood. Hardwood floors are not usually finished with paint. A floor contractor could put them in good condition for you. If no one can be had in your neighborhood, see if you can get hold of a floor sanding machine in good condition. After sanding until the surfaces are smooth, clean up all dust, and fill the cracks with crack filler, if necessary. (First clean dust out of cracks.) If you do not wish to repaint the floors, you could give them an oil finish. A good mixture is 3 parts raw linseed oil and 1 part turpentine. Apply liberally. Allow about two hours for soaking in and then wipe dry. Repeat oiling after twenty-four hours for drying. If the wood continues to absorb the mixture, apply a third coat. After drying, an oiled floor has a dull finish which can be brightened by polishing. It can also be waxed. Oily rags should be destroyed or hung up outdoors to dry. They may become a fire hazard if these precautions are not taken. There are other floor finishing materials manufactured especially for soft wood floors. For the names, inquire of the Architects Samples Exhibit, 101 Park Avenue, New York 17.

Repairing Leaky Places

Q. We have an unroofed cement porch, under which is a fruit cellar. During a rain storm water comes through the joint where the porch is attached to the house wall. Also, when there is a hard, driving rain the water comes in over the top of the door. There is weather metal on the roof. How can we stop these leaks?

A.: The joint where the porch meets the wall can be filled with caulking compound forced in with a caulking-gun. The leak over or at the door could be filled in the same way, although it might be advisable to have new flashings put in.

SUMP-PUMP

Q. What is a sump-pump, and what is its purpose?

A.: A sump-pump is installed in a pit built into the low point of a cellar floor. It comes equipped with a float. When seepage occurs, the pit fills up with water, the float rises and starts the pump, which carries the water to a point of discharge outside of the cellar.

GARAGE ROOF BOARDS

Q.: During the winter the roof boards in my brick garage, which has a flat roof, frosted up very much on the ends. Consequently, these boards are deteriorating. I have two air ventilators, one on each side. Do you think the trouble could be checked if I were to put up a ceiling of insulating board?

A.: It is possible that the ventilators are not large enough to move the air effectively. I assume the ventilators are of the louvre variety installed in the walls. The installation of a roof ventilator should help. A ceiling of insulating wallboard may also help correct the condition, but to prevent the possible penetration of vapor through it into the space above the board, coat the back of it with asphalt paint. Before closing the area give the boards and joists a soaking coat of creosote or a chemical wood preservative.

Mackenzie Says Hour For Peace To Walk Is Here

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

[illegible] Gilmore, AP chief of bureau in Moscow, reports that Russians [illegible]ze there may be stormy [illegible] ahead in the United Nations [illegible] the general impression [illegible] United States and the [illegible] Union [illegible] be moving [illegible] phase [illegible] understanding [illegible] one of [illegible] to all [illegible] certainly is [illegible] near that [illegible] Russians feel [illegible] because there have been grave [illegible] the western world [illegible] this point. However, the proof of the plum-duff is in the eating thereof, and so we must wait and see. One thing is clear. This is the witching hour when the spirit of amity is likely to [illegible] all. The time of power maneuvering for positions either is about past, or it will lead us into another conflict.

DewittMackenzie

The most hopeful sign thus far is the general agreement (on the face of it) that armaments must be slashed. If the major powers, being united on this point, can now work out details that will be satisfactory to all, we may have found the road to peace. This is so because the dangerous split between Russia and the Western Allies has been due in considerable degree to mutual fears and suspicions regarding the mighty fighting machines which were being maintained

Moscow has made a great and positive gesture in officially calling for reduction of armaments. The United States has complemented that perfectly with the proposal for safeguarding arms control by an international inspection system.

Such international inspection is, of course, a controversial subject. Russia objected to it on the ground that it would be an infringement of sovereignty. However, the Soviet may regard the broader issue of disarmament differently and so change its mind about atomic-energy.

Surely we haven't so soon forgotten the terrible lesson which Hitler taught us about secret rearmament. The mere pledge to disarm won't get the members of the United Nations anywhere. Your banker, even if he is your best friend, makes you put up security for a loan from his institution. The only way a nation can demonstrate its sincerity is by throwing its works open to inspection. If it has nothing to hide it won't mind inspection, especially since the other fellow will be getting the same treatment

Delicate Situation

When it comes to cutting down armies there arises what strikes your correspondent as being a delicate situation. In gauging the strength any power has in soldiery, do we take into account the military strength of satellites of that power?

Say a major power reports that it has a standing army of 500,000 Do we also figure on the fact that his power has within its zone of influence maybe half a dozen small satellites, each of which has a standing army of 100,000" According to my calculations that actually would mean that the great power had a standing army of over a million, because the satellites will stand with the great power in case of war

Perhaps that's making the thing too complicated, but the satellite aspect of the situation will have to be taken into consideration in one way or other in making a reckoning

RUSSIANS GIVE WAGE RAISE TO TEACHERS

By International News Service

BERLIN — German school teachers in the Russian zone will become an elite, highly-paid professional class, according to Soviet authorities who have announced sweeping salary increases which go into effect immediately.

In some cases the increases amount to more than 40 per cent.

The Red Army newspaper in Berlin, "Taegliche Rundschau," in an editorial entitled "Dignifying the Teacher," writes:

"These measures are not merely intended to improve the living standard of teachers but have the additional goal of making teaching one of the highest-paid professions

Young people who prepare for this high calling must know that their work will not only provide moral satisfaction but also a firm economic basis which will permit them to enter the category of persons whose work is highly esteemed by society and highly compensated

Under the revised schedules, basic salaries of principals and administrators in secondary and vocational schools range from 7,000 to 9,700 reichsmark a year ($2,800 to $3,800 at the pre-war exchange), with automatic increases based on length of service.

Teachers in schools of this category will be paid from 4,800 to 8,400 reichsmark

Elementary school teachers' salaries range from 4,100 to 7,100

Secondary and vocational school salary are based on a 25-hour week, elementary school salaries on a 30-hour week Any additional hours of instruction must be paid for

The new plan provides for rental allowances and salary addition of 20 reichsmark monthly for each child in the teacher's family.

BELGIAN NAZI PURGE MAKING PROGRESS

By The Associated Press

BRUSSELS — Since Belgium's liberation more than 450,000 investigations into the activity of citizens suspected of collaboration with the Nazis have been conducted by the Belgian military authorities.

This is one sixteenth of Belgium's total population, and it would be rash to jump to the conclusion that such a big fraction of the country's inhabitants gave active support to the Germans.

In fact, up to June 1 only 282 Belgians had been condemned to death and of these 102 had been executed by the firing squad.

The latest available statistics issued by the Ministry of Justice show that 133,093 Belgians joined the German army or military formations. Although this figure is also comparatively high, it must be kept in mind that the majority of these men had been sent to Germany as slave laborers and that most of them were employed in labor formations such as the Todt organization and the transport corps.

Eighteen thousand Flemings fought in the ranks of the SS and the traitor Leon Degrelle's ill-famed Walloon Legion, which fought on the Russian front, amounted to a bare 3,000 men Another 3 500 were employed by the Gestapo and 2,500 donned the "Feldgendarme's" uniform

Out of 75,391 cases of "military collaboration" 58,730 have been dropped by the military courts, but more than 16,000 are still to be tried.

There were 16,000 cases of "economic collaboration" examined up to April 15, and out of these only 219 had been brought to court.

MARION MAN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Car Driven by Richwood Woman Figures in Crash.

A Marion man is in City hospital suffering from a fractured jaw, lacerations of the cheek and scalp and body bruises following a head-on collision between two automobiles on Route 4 about seven miles south of Marion today at 9:05 a. m.

He is Lewis W. Brown, 22, of 607 East George street. Traveling south his car collided with one driven by Mrs. Mary Kearns of Richwood. She was not seriously hurt and was given first aid for abrasions at the scene of the accident and taken home. The Boyd and Uncapher ambulance brought Brown to City hospital. Both cars were demolished, state patrolmen said.

The accident happened one-tenth of a mile north of Newman's bridge. There was no obstruction in the road, but the patrol said wet pavement might have contributed to the collision.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS AT MINIMUM HERE

Sheriff Retterer Says Damage at Low Point.

Major destruction from Halloween escapades in the Marion county area this year was the least in several years, Sheriff LeRoy Retterer reported today.

During the last few nights the sheriff's office received numerous calls, but most of them were concerned with minor pranks, the sheriff said. Only communities in the county area not reporting Halloween incidents were Caledonia, Martel and Waldo.

Some farm machinery was molested, a few small farm buildings upset and corn shocks scattered on several roads, but there was no major property damage reported in any of the rural areas, the sheriff said.

City police said they received only a few calls concerning Halloween pranksters during the last several nights.

possible clear, sharp pictures of moving parts.

The new machine contains two tubes instead of the usual one. One of the tubes is a recently developed type, costing about $1,000 and making possible much better pictures than have been obtained heretofore.

An automatic stereoscopic plate changer for special chest X-rays is included with the new machine. This device facilitates the taking of stereoscopic, or double pictures, which was impracticel with the old machine, Dr. Morrison said. A stereoscopic, or viewer, is included.

Better Pictures Assured

Another feature of the new machine is a spot-film device, which enables the operator to take an instant picture of something he is looking at through the fluorescope. A change-over requiring three or four minutes was necessary in using the old machine, by which time, Dr. Morrison said, the view was likely to have changed.

The new machine's platform is much more variable than the old machine's. The latter's platform varied only five degrees from horizontal. The new machine varies from vertical to 20 degrees below horizontal.

Super Market Sues Realtor of Dayton

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 2—Albers Super Markets, Inc., of Cincinnati, filed suit for $188,778.13 judgment, plus interest, against Arthur Beerman, Dayton realtor, yesterday in Montgomery county common pleas court.

Beerman is charged with having induced the directors of the Charles Sucher Packing Co. to violate an agreement made with Albers under which the grocery would have received 50 per cent of the company's meat products available for civilian use.

The $188,778.13 figure represents the amount of profit Albers would have realized through the resale of the meat products had the terms of the agreement been carried out, the petition said.

The petition asserts that the plaintiff (Albers) had purchased an interest in the Sucher Packing Co. on basis of representations made by Beerman.

On Oct. 23 in Hamilton county common pleas court (Cincinnati), Jerome Goldman filed suit against Albers for an accounting and judgment of $110,000. At that time Albers issued a statement contending the suit as instigated by Beerman.

The number of U. S. semi-skilled workers rose from 15 per cent of the working force in 1910 to 21 per cent in 1940.

The Answer Is Plain

AS THE CLOSE of the 1946 election campaign draws near, there are unmistakable indications that the results of Tuesday's voting will at least partly free the country from the costly and disruptive hodgepodge rule of New Deal politicians and bureaucrats.

Voters are turning to the party out of power as they become convinced that the party in power since 1932 has exhausted its possibilities. The Democratic party is no longer a party. It is torn from within and assailed from without. It is a coalition without the leadership that formerly held it together.

The question of its fate already has been decided by events. It is through. The only question that remains is: where do we go from here?

Under the two-party system, the answer is plain. The Republican party must exercise the responsibility which the Democratic party cannot exercise. President Truman's administration is impotent. It has not furnished leadership such as the nation needs in these critical times, nor has it been able to put any kind of program into effect. It will not improve.

Evidence that the American people generally are aware of the present administration's inadequacy became apparent long before this campaign got under way, for expressions from virtually all sections of the country made clear there was bitter and growing discontent over the nationwide disorder and that the blame is placed where it belongs, on the lack of competent leadership in Washington.

The people have come to feel that this inability by the New Deal administration to guide the nation through the first year of post-war reconstruction is only a sample of the troubles which will come later should the same impotent and inefficient governmental regime be permitted to continue its mismanagement. They fear for the future, and have every reason for that fear. That can mean but one thing, as far as the outcome of Tuesday's election is concerned. The people will take advantage of this, their first post-war opportunity to remedy conditions, by curtailing the power and dominance of the political elements responsible for the breakdown of national order and stability and the threat of future chaos.

This will be but a partial remedy. The complete cure of the nation's ailments will come two years later in the election of a Republican president.

But a long step toward this ultimate 100 per cent restoration of the country to full strength and stability under government of the people and for the people appears to be on the way in Tuesday's election, with prospects of the Republican party gaining a majority in congress. Ohio can and doubtless will do its part in this most urgently needed move toward the right sort of government by electing John W. Bricker to the United States senate and reelecting George H. Bender as congressman-at-large while the Eighth district retains Frederick C. Smith as its representative in congress.

Anyone Feel Like Crying?

SCATTERED reports say price chaos is hurting the tipping system. Some persons no longer know what they are expected to give, so give too little. Others, confronted with such absurdities as dollar haircuts and five-dollar steaks, are giving nothing. Still others have run out of wherewithal to keep the tipping system in funds.

But all rumors of its death will be exaggerated. It has been kept alive so far by determined operators who can't afford to let anything happen to it. They have not lost their fine touch in the art of getting money from the public for no better reason than the human inclination "to do as the Romans do."

Many jobs in the United States now are rated by the tips that go with them. Certain types of employment are gold mines for skilled tip beggers, or their exploiters, with the public paying the freight. If tipping is going haywire, the lapse will be momentary. Native-born Americans who should be too proud to take charity from their equals won't have to worry long about where their next sucker is coming from. There are too many free riders interested in keeping the tipping system stabilized.

Unite or Divide in Europe?

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Depends on Whether Ways Found To Solve Problems

MR. BYRNES at his press conference on Thursday said, referring to a critical article of mine which had been published that morning, that it was the easiest thing he knew of to sit in the grandstand and throw bottles at the pitcher. I am sorry if he feels that way about it. For the last thing I would wish to do is to make more difficult his prodigiously difficult task.

I had supposed, however, that in this country at least we believed that critical discussion was not only a legal right but on the whole useful in the formation of policy, that it is not an exhibition of rowdyism, like throwing bottles at the pitcher, and that the press and the people who sit in the grandstand are not there simply to cheer when the cheer leader waves his arms.

The criticism which Mr. Byrnes was dealing with was an argument that it was not possible to make a good and workable settlement in eastern Europe separately from a European and global settlement. Mr. Byrnes appears to feel that because it has been so difficult to reach agreement in one region, namely in eastern Europe, it is silly to suppose that it would have been any easier to reach simultaneous and general agreements in a broader negotiation.

But I submit that there is nothing silly about this, and that if he will study the history of any of the great peace conference, he will find that successful statesmen have always recognized that where there were many difficult issues, none could be settled separately, that only in a general settlement could any of them be settled.

Some Stakes Great

There is a reason for this. In any one region and on any one issue, some powers are stronger and have a greater stake than others. If the negotiation is confined to one region, the power with the stronger position is able to refuse an agreement except on its own terms. But if the negotiation is broadened to include several regions, then the situation becomes different. The powers which were weak in the first region are strong in the others.

In a general negotiation, therefore, all have something to give and all have something to ask, and this is what induces them to find a basis for agreement. The more the negotiator restricts the field of the negotiation, the more likely it is to become deadlocked. In any negotiation, and particularly in international negotiation, the way to resolve a deadlock over one issue is to raise other issues.

Our recent experience in dealing with the Soviet Union is a good illustration of this point. There have been signs in the past few weeks—notably Stalin's two interviews—that there has been some slight change for the better in the behavior of Soviet officials. Now this change began almost immediately after an event, after the United States government took the decision to play a strong part in the settlement of the Turkish question and to build up the fleet in the Mediterranean.

Stalin has, to be sure, professed to be "indifferent" to this momentous event. But I think we are entitled to believe that this was the event which, more than anything else that has happened, caused him to reconsider his tactics and his position.

For Stalin, as all who have dealt with him seriously testify, is quick to appreciate the significance of strategical developments which affect his own country. The language he understands most readily is the language of military power.

But when in September American sea and air power began to build up in the Mediterranean and behind Turkey, which is the front door to the most vulnerable area of the Soviet Union, then the balance of power in Europe and in the world was altered. The Red Army, which dominates eastern Europe, and could not be moved by a diplomatic frontal assault, can be outflanked in the eastern Mediterranean. The British and Americans can never match the masses of the Red infantry. But sea and air power are a kind of force which we do possess and can readily augment. The appearance of this force on the flank of the whole Russian position in Europe, and pointed in a direction where Russia is most sensitive, was an event which Stalin could not, and I believe did not, ignore in the calculation of his policy.

Make Settlement Easier

This is a concrete example of how, by broadening the field of negotiation, the disposition to find agreements can be improved. Mr. Byrnes' chances of a good agreement about Trieste and the Danube, for example, will be greater in a negotiation which includes the Dardanelles and the Turkish question. For on the Danube he has little or nothing with which to induce or compel agreement. At Trieste alone he has no means of inducing or compelling the Russians to police Tito; yet un-

Battle For Congress

By RAYMOND MOLEY

This is the fifth of a series of six articles on the political situation).

AT THIS writing, the contest for senate control is so close that John L. Lewis' negotiations with the government may decide it. Harley M. Kilgore'e seat in West Virginia may tip the balance.

Thirty-five senate seats are to be decided in the forthcoming election. This eliminates the "complimentary" terms to run between election and Jan. 20, 1947.

Six of the 35 contests are in the south, where election is automatic. Eleven are in Tennessee, Arizona, Rhode Island, Utah, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Vermont, North Dakota and Connecticut where the outcome is certain and where the results will not change the party proportions in the senate. Almost the same certainty is present in Nevada, Maryland and New Jersey. In these states, also, no change in party is involved.

This leaves 15 seats where changes in party affiliation are probable or possible. Of these 15, two Republican and 13 Democratic seats are at stake.

Present Alignment

The present senate alignment is 56 Democrats, 39 Republicans and one Progressive. Republicans must hold their present seats and gain 10. It is not certain that they will retain two of their present seats, and so in our calculation we must start at rock bottom, with 37 virtually certain seats. To these, we can, with practical certainty, add those in Wisconsin, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Delaware. That brings us to 41.

Beyond that considerable doubt surrounds the remaining 11 contests — in California, Kentucky, Missouri, New York, Massachusetts, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, New Mexico and West Virginia. Reliable and impartial observers in these states have told this reporter within the past two days that Republicans have the edge in Kentucky, Missouri, New York, Massachusetts, Idaho and Washington and that the outcome is extremely close in California, Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico and West Virginia.

Since Republicans must win in eight of these states, it is only fair to point out that a high degree of speculation must attend a prediction that the required 49 Republicans will be elected.

Many "ifs" are involved. If Thomas E. Dewey wins by a very large majority, and that seems indicated, Irving M. Ives will beat Herbert H. Lehman by a considerably smaller majority. Lehman will run 300,000 ahead of James M. Mead, who is Dewey's opponent. If private polls are to be trusted, Henry Cabot Lodge will beat David I. Walsh in Massachusetts. If the best political reporters in Missouri are right, James P. Kem will beat Frank P. Briggs. If reports of the feelings of stockmen scattered over the ranges of Wyoming are to be reflected in their votes, Joseph C. O'Mahoney will lose. If an advantage in debate, which certainly prevailed in Washington last week, continues, Harry P. Cain will beat Hugh B. Mitchell. If color, energy and money can beat the shrewd and well-entrenched Dennis Chavez in New Mexico, Pat Hurley will win. If Democratic organizational troubles in Kentucky are as bad as reported, the Republicans will keep the Kentucky seat.

California Uncertain

California is a mystery. The best reporters there say it is exceedingly close, with time working for William F. Knowland over Will Rogers Jr.

If John L. Lewis can depict the Truman administration as opposed to the interests of his miners in the forthcoming negotiations in Washington, Harley M. Kilgore will lose in West Virginia, and that might tie or give the senate control to the Republicans.

Finally, if a vast undercurrent of opposition to the Democrats is under way on election day, possibly all these states will go Republican.

But it must be noted that the trend toward the Republicans is strongest in the midwest, fairly strong in the east and weakest in the west. Its strength is not uniform.

In a final column in this series, there will be a last-minute resurvey of both house and senate contests.

RIDING FOR A FALL

The Meaning Of Molotov

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—Molotov's extraordinary speech on Tuesday is regarded as a mere culminating episode in a new phase of Soviet policy, which combines several old strands. Disarmament, for example, was mentioned by Generalissimo Stalin many months ago, in his first interview in Moscow with Ambassador Bedell Smith. Smith closed the conversation by remarking on the desirability of reducing all armies of occupation. By a mistake of interpretation, Stalin received the impression that Smith referred to disarmament. He replied that the Soviet Union was ready to discuss disarmament with the United States at any time.

But the parts of the new phase of Soviet policy are less important than the whole, which has two main aspects. First, American firmness abroad and Soviet weakness at home have caused the Russian leaders to limit, for the present, their expansionist plans. Thus there will be a period of Soviet recoil—a comparative lull in international turmoil, marked by such signs as the Clay-Sokolowski discussions now going on in Berlin.

Second, however, the Soviet leaders wish to cash in on their temporary moderation, by inducing the United States and other Western nations to treat the lull as permanent. They hope, for instance, that in a mood of deluded optimism this country will dismantle its national defense. Then Byrnes' policy of "patience and firmness" will become meaningless in the future on which the Soviet policy-makers always have their eyes fixed.

Call Their Punches

In the matter of disarmament which is crucial to them, the Soviet leaders telegraphed their punch long ago. For months the Communist party, its organs, front groups and fellow wanderers, have been charging domination of American and British foreign policy by the "militaristic" general staffs, and attacking "militaristic" defense expenditures. In this country, the attack has been especially concentrated on the Lilienthal-Oppenheimer plan for control of atomic energy, as presented by B. M. Baruch, and on the continued manufacture of atomic bombs.

This outcry has been echoed by such woolly-minded, well-intentioned persons as Henry A. Wallace. In this connection, it is intesting to know where Wallace is now understood to have passed his famous lost week-end, between his promise to Baruch to recant his inaccuracies on atomic energy control and his refusal to honor that promise. His companion is said to have been the persuasive general counsel of the CIO, Lee Pressman, whose sympathies are well known.

By such means some success has been achieved by the Soviet propaganda. Yet no propaganda in recent times has been more misleading. It is laughable to attempt to portray the Soviet Union, whose whole economy is now grimly, brutally concentrated on regaining military strength, as a great pacifist nation. For this purpose, even Stalin has distorted the facts. In his recent reply to Hugh Baillie's questionnaire, Stalin admitted to the presence of 60 Soviet "rifle and armored" divisions in Eastern Europe excluding Romania, which for some odd reason was ommitted from the list of countries. In Romania alone, there were at least 300,000 Soviet troops by the most recent count—or a number equal to the whole, rapidly diminishing American force in all Europe. Moreover, Stalin was plainly not counting NKVD troops, border guards, supply troops, air units and perhaps even artillery. For it is known beyond possibility of doubt that the Soviet Union still has at least 1,400,000, and perhaps 1,500,000 men under arms outside its borders.

Satellite Armies

Furthermore, the Soviet Union has organized, trained and equipped powerful armies in most of its satellite states. All are now being maintained in a state of military readiness, with Soviet advisers as well as Soviet weapons. The Yugosav force alone is estimated at 600,000 men. And in Albania, where the army has many Soviet officers, the Soviets have also set up a secret base on the island of Saseno. There, in violation of all agreements among the allies, a purely Soviet force is maintained in the Adriatic. Surely these are surprising doings for pacifists.

They are hardly surprising in the Soviets, however, in view of the war psychosis which grips the Soviet Union behind the facade of Molotov's talk of disarmament. American experts are now unanimous that Stalin's statement to Alexander Werth, that there was no danger of war, was primarily for internal consumption. War warnings from their leaders had reduced the Soviet man in the stareet to a condition of dumb hysteria. Every embassy in Moscow had word of the peasants everywhere hoarding salt—which is their automatic response to war danger. Stalin had to reassure his pepole.

According to the new line, however, peace is merely temporary. This is continuously repeated. In the October 27 issue of "Red Fleet," the official analyst Korianov quoted Lenin's warning that "finance capitalism inevitably give rise to new imperialist wars."

"STYMIE, picked up from a claiming race (for $1,500, is now within reach of the grea Whirlaway's all-time money winning record. — News item.)

He is not so much to look at—
He has points not up to par;
He is not a picture critter
Or a blooming' picture star;
He is not a silver-spooner
Pampered where the bluebloods play . . .
But he's made the heights of glory
Comin' though the long, hard way.

II

"Ordinary," was the verdict,
Of the boys who fall for looks;
And who go all out for breedin',
Goin' strictly by the books;
"Sort of runty," spoke the wise ones;
"Has some points, but not enough." . . .
"Izzat so!" we think he answered,
"Boy, I'll make you eat that stuff!"

III

"Lacks the class," the smart ones echoed,
When he first went to the fray;
"Won't amount to much in racing;
Feedin' his type doesn't pay!" . . .
So they put him in the "claimers"
Where the cull and misfits go . . .
Well, it seems they erred a little
And he's out to tell 'em so.

Fifteen hundred paltry dollars
Was the highest bid they got
When this plain and flashless skinner
Was tossed in as not too hot:
"Jacobs got him" was the info;
"No one thought him worth a bet;"
Hirsch and Stymie started laughin'—
And they ain't stopped laughin' yet!

V

Whirlaway was then the "big hoss"—
On the distant heights he shone
King of all, he topped the winners
And he stood there all alone;
"Just a bum," they said of Stymie,
By comparison," but look! . . .
There he stands at Whirly's withers—
And it ain't a screen-play book!

VI

Plain and very far from pretty,
Not the dashing type at all,
Stymie acts more like the plodder
'Till he gets the stretch-run call;
Tab him in your book of great ones,
Follow well the guidin' star

ALL SOULS' DAY

The color fades, how swiftly, from the wood,
Only a few wild asters dim with frost
Are left out of the summer's opulence.
Down in the garden where the dahlias stood
Is sorry ruin, and for beauty lost
There is no comfort, rather a poigant sense
Of many gently importuning ghosts.
It is quite still, yet those assembled there
Are felt, are heard; a touch, a sighing breath,
Faint mists that waver through the trees-these hosts
Foregathered in the softly chilly air,
This blackened garden, mingle death with death.

By TRUMAN TWILL

DEAR NEPHEW: Have you taken time this fall to appreciate the country? Don't answer, because it would incriminate you. But I recommend it as an intidote for everybody who has a bellyful of politics, international friction and atomic fears.

I recall in that connection that when they dumped the atom bombs at Bikini the only thing that survived in good shape was Nature. The ocean rolled on. The palm trees waved. All that suffered was the man-made stuff.

As you've guessed by this time, I've been on one of my jaunts. Your aunt and I spent the afternoon touring around and ended up at the sugar camp for a picnic supper and a couple hours of fireside meditation.

This has been a good year on the land, as you town mice have found out by reading statistics. You need to get out where the statistics start and see the pasture lots, look at the young timber, the sleek dairy herds, the farms, the equipment being used on them, the fields, straw stacks and the farmers themselves.

Yes, and you need to take a long, soul-satisfying swig of the heady autumn air and shuffle through windrows of fallen leaves. And if a flock of jays can be thrown in, with perhaps a half dozen homeward-bound winging crows in the last failing light of another fine October day, then you've had a fair sample of the thing that is more important than anything the newspapers have written up since the Pilgrims discovered they could support themselves in America—or hadn't the first Daily Bugle started publication then?

Seriously, I wish I could prescribe something like this for everybody who hasn't taken it, then stand by while they swallowed the full dose. It is what the doctor ordered, not the one with the caduceus but the head of the whole department of human health. It restores vision, soothes the nerves and builds up the muscle tone. It is fine for hyperthyroidism and is guaranteed to cure the ectomies.

When your aunt and I were coming home tonight under the stars, full of oxygen, steak and boiled coffee, she asked me how I felt. I said I felt better than I ever did in my life and she said she did too. Now you know that both of us are victims of the 1946 jitters, scared of inflation, panicky about World War III and arthritic to boot, especially in damp weather. But the way we felt fine tonight was different from being free of minor ailments. We felt fine the way an old dog feels fine when he gets out where he belongs and knows he's in tune with his surroundings.

No, I don't expect you'll find time to take an afternoon and an evening according to my directions. You probably think you are too busy. You probably are too busy, which is worse. And you probably hope you are going to get in drugstore capsules, or with some kind of magic rays—at considerable expense—what anyone can have for the taking.

Remind your kids that I know it isn't long until Christmas, because they'll be wondering if I am keeping track of the calendar. Mention to them that their favorite relatives won't forget, because they won't, in fact they haven't. I'm working on a nice proposition on the layaway plan.

I Believe

A Sermonette

By REV. M. E. HOLLENSEN

Pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

"Lord, I believe."—Mark 9:24.

IN TIME of confusion, when many things previously taken for granted must often be given up, when life itself becomes uncertain, and the future augurs hard days of sacrifice and toil ahead, men's hearts are apt to fail them for fear. Added to these worries, there come, also, the fear of the moment of death, of what will then take place, of a judgment before God, and of final retribution.

To calm these dreadful thoughts, men very often seek comfort in the fact that they believe in God. And they are quick to speak to their souls, "I believe in God, therefore, I need not be afraid." But the Scriptures tell us that the devils also believe and tremble (James 2:19). So, evidently, there must be no comfort whatever in merely believing the fact that some God exists. Yet, it is true, the Christian exclaims that he finds glorious assurance when he says to himself, "I believe."

Our problem as to why the child of God is comforted when he says that he believes is answered when we consider what the Christian means by the statement, "I believe."

"I believe" for the Christian means that he believes:

I. God, Triune, Exists.

This is more than a feeling or belief that some God lives. The Christian believes that only one God lives, and he knows who that God is. That God is not some abstract power, some influence wielding itself in this universe. Turning to the Word, the child of God finds that God has revealed His being. And taking the Writings at their face value, the Christian believes that God exists, but that this God is one, and at the same time three Persons, God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost. Many men, yes millions of them, believe that a God lives. But such faith means nothing. The revealed Word of God tells us that our God is one God, yet three separate and distinct Persons, Father, Son and Holy Spirit. And each Person is God. And, furthermore, our triune, or three-in-one God has revealed that He is a Spirit, eternal, all-powerful, all-knowing, all-wise, everywhere present at the same time, holy, righteous, merciful and gracious, and truthful. This is the first thing, then, the Christian means when he says, "I believe." He believes in the existence of the one true, triune God; not merely in the existence of a God.

But believing includes more than the conviction that a triune God, the true God exists.

"I believe" for the Christian means, also, that he believes:

II. God's Son Is The All-Sufficient Savior.

Here is the very heart of the faith of the believer. He believes, that is, he holds the conviction: That the Father sent His Son, who assumed human nature, and became a man; that this Person was Jesus Christ, true God and true man; that God's Son came to take away the guilt and the punishment of the world's sin; that this Christ accomplished this task by keeping the law of God perfectly, and by offering up His life on Calvary; that the fact that Christ has taken the guilt of all men upon Himself and has borne the eternal punishment for the sins of all men means that Christ has redeemed or purchased and won all men from sin, eternal death and the devil; that because he trusts that Jesus kept the law for him, and bore his punishment on the cross, he is forgiven his sins and given the perfect righteousness of Christ, which admits him into the kingdom and assures him of eternal life and everlasting salvation in heaven; that no works on his part are necessary whatever with which to buy heaven, because the sacrifice of Christ paid the price of heaven in full for him; that salvation is a free gift of grace from God through faith, not of works, lest any man should boast. That is what "I believe" means to the Christian with regard to Christ, his King and Savior. And this is the very crowning glory of his believing, because this trust is saving faith. Hence, the Christian certainly believes more than the fact that a God lives.

Believing includes even more than the conviction that God is a triune God, and that God's Son is the all-sufficient Savior.

"I believe" for the Christian means, also, that he believes:

III. God The Holy Spirit Sanctifies.

Much is being written about the Holy Spirit, the third Person of the Trinity. And much of what is being penned is most confusing. Yet the Scriptures are clear when they tell us that it is the work of the Holy Spirit to take the free redemption that Christ has made possible and to bring it to individuals. The Holy Spirit calls men, gathers and enlightens them, kindles a saving faith in their hearts, and then keeps them in this grace unto their end. This is the work of sanctification, the work of the Spirit by which He sets men apart for God and salvation through faith in Christ, and endeavors to keep men in this saving relationship with God. How does He work? This Holy Spirit operates through the Word of God, and the Sacraments, namely, Baptism and the Lord's Supper. He calls only those who come in contact with His Word, for the Word is the channel through which He carries on His work. St. Paul says, "How shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard?" (Rom. 10:14). So, the child of God does not flatter himself because he believes in Christ; he in all humility gives all credit to the Holy Spirit for his salvation, since he knows that "No man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost." (I Cor. 12:3). Faith, therefore, to the Christian means that he believes that the entire work of bringing souls to Christ is the work of the Holy Spirit. And the believer is comforted in the fact that he trusts Christ, for thereby he knows that the Holy Spirit has by the law led him to sorrow for his sin, and by the Gospel has brought him to a saving faith in Christ and His perfect righteousness.

It is no wonder, then, that the Christian is comforted when he says, "I believe." If all men could say, "I believe," and mean what the child of God does, then men would not need to fear, but could rather rejoice and take courage, even when the days are darkened by unrest and uncertainty.

If the comfort of faith is ours, let us tell others; if it is not, let us ask a Christian who knows. But above all, let us not rest until we have the full assurance that goes with the confession, "I believe."

CHURCH PUTS EMPHASIS ON TITHING, ATTENDANCE

Calvary to Prepare for Two Special Events.

Calvary Evangelical church has set as major emphasis for November, tithing and attendance, with a financial crusade planned, and a special system of attendance records to be inaugurated tomorrow in the Sunday school. Reception of new members will feature the morning worship service tomorrow. The 12-week attendance crusade opening tomorrow will operate on the Nelson Stamp book plan in all departments of the Sunday school, Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor, announced. The tithing crusade for the month of November is a plan in which members and friends of Calvary church are asked to bring 10 per cent of their incomes for the month and present it upon the altar for any cause listed in the church budget which the individual chooses to support. Sunday morning, November 24, will be set aside as the observance of this as a Thanksgiving festival, it was explained.

Members of the Youth Fellowship will meet at the church at 2:15 p. m. tomorrow to go to Upper Sandusky Trinity Evangelical church for a fall youth rally. Monday at 7:30 p. m., the administrative council will meet at the church. Women of the Missionary society will go to the Upper Sandusky church Wednesday for an area missionary rally.

Special Services Set At Oakland Church

A missionary offering will be received at the morning service in Oakland Evangelical church tomorrow, Rev. H. V. Falor, pastor, announced. F. meeting in Upper Sandusky.

Monday has been set as day of prayer for the revival services which will open Tuesday night and continue each night except Saturday through Nov. 17. Rev. Russell Boaz of Youngstown will be the evangelist and Mrs. Edith Gallagher of Sebring, O., will be soloist, song leader and children's worker. NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Hit-and-run impressions from a world tour through fifty countries:

Japan—Feudalism democratized by the atom.

Korea—A house divided, an unwilling landlord to two armed tenants.

Manchuria—Chaos below zero.

China—Menu for some time: "Solly, no rice. Allee same plenty political chop suey."

Hong Kong—Her name sounds as a gong and her hills are beauty; an emerald reached for by two hands—but the white one holds it.

Java — The Dutch in Dutch in their paradise regained.

Bali—The land of forgotten delight, crumbled altars and legs that know no silken prison. A nylon salesman's hell.

Siam—Ditto for shoe salesmen.

French Indo China—A hot place to earn enough money to go back to Paris. They take Hashish—I'll take Hoboken.

Singapore—Sloe-eyes and sloe-gin, romance and the Raffles hotel—they read well in Somerset Maugham. But you can get the same effect by making love to your secretary in a Turkish bath.

Australia—A ribbon with a limey memory around an empire of sand.

Manila—A little brown man trying on his first long pants. But will the pineapples explode?

Burma—The neighbor boy who is mad because his stepmother won't let him wear long pants, too, and set up his own popstand.

India—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" played with a British accent and no ice.

Arabia—The harem has less Arabian night entertainment since hubby went prospecting for more oilfields that are relighting Aladdin's lamp.

Palestine—The chosen people choose, the Arabs refuse.

Egypt—The Sphinx finds its voice and fires an old policeman at the gateway to the Middle East —Tommy Atkins.

Greece—The birthplace of democracy takes back a dubious sceptor to keep out a foreign sickle.

Yugoslavia—American charity without clarity.

Hungary—Graustark entertains a Communist guest.

Italy—No Caesar, no bread, no circuses—and more new ruins than the Romans left.

Czechoslovakia — A political bridge with only one pier—and Russian traffic cops. Here dwell the prettiest girls in the world, but they always take mother with them.

Switzerland — A twenty-one jewel working example of what the United Nations could be.

Germany—Ach! ach! ach! ach! Who wags the tail on a Dachshund with four heads?

Denmark—Things are looking up in Hamlet's home. The Melancholy Dane—he became melancholy from watching the Swedes make war profits while he fed occupying Nazis—is doing well again as Europe's butter-and-egg man.

Man Injured in Union County Traffic Crash

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Nov. 2 — Two accidents within 12 hours at Milford Center, near here, resulted in an 81-year-old Plumwood man being taken to White Cross hospital, Columbus, with serious injuries and damage to two automobiles, a truck, and a building at the Ohio Grain Co. elevator.

W. J. Pratt of Plumwood was taken to the hospital with internal injuries as the result of a crash on route 4 when a car driven by Marion Murphy of Marion, collided with Pratt's machine, parked along the highway. Several hours later a tractor-trailer outfit driven by George Wright, Mogadore, ran into a grain elevator barn when the driver swerved the outfit to avoid a head-on crash with an auto which did not stop.

CIO Says Taft-Bricker Policy Aids Communism

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Republican senatorial candidate John W. Bricker are "pursuing a course, which if not arrested, will impress the Communist philosophy upon more American minds than any propaganda from abroad," national CIO-PAC Director Jack Kroll contends.

Speaking at a CIO rally last night, Kroll declared he had given serious thought to the matter before making the accusation.

"It is during depressions that we face real dangers," said Kroll. "The time when we have to fear Communism is when millions of our people stand in bread lines, when our factories are closed, when our manpower is idle, when families are dispossessed, broken up, disrupted, when our young men and women looking for jobs cannot find them and when men lose hope."

Educator Says Buildings Will Become Burden to Owners and Nation.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2—Today's new housing is low in value and high in price and "will become a burden to society and a misfortune to the owner," a University of Illinois agricultural engineer declared today.

In a speech prepared for the 50th anniversary observance of the Ohio State university school of home economics, Prof. Deane G. Carter said:

"We blame the war situation for the critical nature of housing, but the fact is that the housing problem has been with us for 30 years and longer, although it has been more pressing since 1919 and severe since 1932.

"It is not only a veterans problem, for every American family must be decently housed.

"At the moment," he continued, "housing conditions include high costs, scarce materials, shoddy construction, omissions and substitutions.

"Divergent interests, powerful forces and dissimilar philosophies result in conflicts and controversy. The consumer of housing is scarcely to be heard and he is the one that suffers."

Housing has advanced too slowly and in some ways has declined in basic values, Carter asserted.

The average age of the Ohio farm house is 50 years, he said, adding "the house is the oldest building on the farm as a rule."

"Only one-half the houses are the right size to meet accepted requirements; the rest are too small to serve adequately, or too large for effective use and economy," the professor said.

As aids in solving the difficult housing problems of today, the speaker recommended building code revisions to allow new techniques, new materials, mass production and large-scale construction processes; education agencies for training craftsmen or professional housing workers, and an expansive program of housing research and widespread public education.

OPA Gets Request For Ceiling on Skeletons

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 2—Editors of the Omaha Technical High school newspaper wrote district OPA price attorney Donald Brodkey asking for OPA ceiling prices on a new skeleton, a used skeleton, and a "trade in" skeleton. The letter said the skeleton was needed by the school's biology class.

Brodkey replied that skeletons weren't under price ceilings but that "dissatisfied purchasers should go to the nearest chiropractor for an adjustment."

First, however, Brodkey checked with Principal Carl F. Hansen to confirm that the letter was a Halloween prank.

LIPPMANN

less the Russians will do that, an agreement about Trieste is worthless. But at the Dardanelles Mr. Byrnes has a good equivalent for the Red Army, and therefore the materials and the conditions of a genuine negotiation are present. A general settlement which includes Trieste with the Dardanelles will not, of course, be easy to get. But a settlement at Trieste alone, which can be relied upon at all, is impossible to get.

Were Mr. Byrnes willing to consider, and not merely to resent, the idea of a general settlement, he would find not only that his diplomatic power increased but he would find also that the moral position of the United States would be raised. For if we insisted on broadening the field of negotiation, then we could become the sponsors and advocates of the idea that there must be not an eastern European settlement, and then a German settlement, but a European settlement which embraces them all.

The idea of Europe, the idea that Europe is a civilization which non-European powers cannot treat as something to be divided up and used for their rivalry, is perhaps the most influential political idea that can be invoked to raise men's spirits on the continent. Would that we could say to the Europeans that we were in Europe to help them unite and not to divide them, that we were there to support them while they re covered their strength, and the to listen to them, and to mediat among them, not to impose upo them a settlement which refle our conflict with the Sov Union.

For then we might hope to w the confidence of the peoples c Europe, who must live with the settlements.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—The labor department and maritime commission spearheaded a government drive today for a quick end to four of the nation's most bothersome strikes.

They are the month-old Pacific coast maritime and stevedore disputes, a two-month walkout of sugar workers in Hawaii and the six-month deadlock at the West Allis, Wis., tractor plant of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

These are the moves made by the two agencies:

1. The maritime commission authorized its west coast agents to place into effect on government Pacific ocean ships the terms of the recent east and Gulf coast maritime strike settlement.

2. The labor department assigned Nathan P. Feinsinger, University of Wisconsin law professor who doubles as an ace government mediator, to work on the Pacific maritime and dock workers dispute, as well as the Hawaiian sugar stoppage.

3. Labor Secretary Schwellenbach asked the Allis-Chalmers company and the striking CIO Auto Workers to send negotiators to a bargaining session here Monday.

Sally Rand Wins Temporary Permit To Continue 'Art'

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2—Sally Rand, having promised to be a bit more discreet about the location of her fans as she glides off the stage, won municipal approval today to continue her show at a downtown theater pending her trial Nov. 13 on a charge of giving an indecent performance.

She hired Jerry Giesler, one of the west's top criminal attorneys, to do court battle in defense of her art; then went back to her four-a-day featuring fans, bubbles and much whistling.

"I'm amazed," remarked the 42-year-old, strikingly attractive Sally, as she appeared for arraignment in municipal court. "This is the same act I've been putting on—or taking off—around here for 12 years. It's the same act that the judge in San Francisco last June said wasn't indecent. In fact, he found it very pure.

City Attorney Donald Redwine yielded to her plea that the show must go on, at least through its booked run next Monday. The lineup on Broadway last night indicated the management might even be willing to offer an extension.

Policewoman E. J. Munson, who followed Sally to her dressing room after the midnight finale yesterday, described the costume as "flesh colored, about 1½ by 3½ inches" but added that Sally declined to surrender it for evidence.

Also arrested on similar charges of presenting "an indecent show tending to corrupt the morals of youth and others" was Howard R. Williams, manager of the theater. Both he and Miss Rand pleaded innocent, and were released on $500 bail.

OPA Digs In for Fight To Retain Rent Curbs

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2—A determined fight to maintain rent controls was signalled by OPA today with disclosure that the agency is expanding its rental staff.

Even while knocking off other price lids by the dozens, OPA has recruited 200 new rent employees and expects to hire 400 this month, an official said.

The field and national force already working exclusively on rental ceilings numbered 6,114 today. Many other OPA workers spent part of their time on enforcement, accounting and administration.

President Truman gave White House backing to the continuation of rental controls indefinitely when he started the recent decontrol wave in other fields by freeing meats and livestock.

State Political Guns Zero In On Northwestern Ohio Target

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 2—Republican and Democratic political guns focused on this northwestern Ohio voting objective last night as gubernatorial and senatorial candidates headed down the final stretch toward Tuesday's election.

John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for senator, promised that "open diplomacy at home and abroad" would be "reestablished" and the "state department will be revitalized" under Republican control.

He listed "ten good reasons" why he thought thousands of Democrats would vote Republican Tuesday.

These, he declared, were because the Republican party stands for "freedom as against regimentation," "constitutional government as against executive rule," "Americanism, not Communism in government."

Lists Other Reasons

Because, he continued" it promises to "reestablish responsible government and dismantle the gigantic bureaucracy erected by the New Deal, get rid of confusion and dissension that we see on every hand in Washington, balance the budget and end further deficit spending, reduce taxes, establish a sound labor policy and sound social service and public welfare programs and "use every means at its command to establish peace throughout the world."

Sen. James W. Huffman, Bricker's Democratic opponent, asserted that "the Republican party seized upon every irritation caused by the war for political capital and charge the Democrats with the blame for everything."

"The Republican party has offered no program to take the place of that which they seek to destroy," Huffman contended.

Shortage Caused by War

Bricker, he said, "blames the sugar shortage on the administration, despite the fact everyone well knows it to be a direct result of the war."

"The Philippines, one of our greatest sources of sugar, was lost to us during the war," Huffman explained, "and has not yet returned to full productivity."

Shortages that occur in return to normal peacetime conditions, Huffman said, "can't be eliminated overnight, and the subject should not be made a political football."

Gov. Frank J. Lausche spoke over a radio station, to a ward party rally and to the Lucas county Democratic women's organization," sharing the platform with Huffman.

"Maybe today you have to stand in line to buy food," the governor declared, "but back in those days (of Republican administration) you didn't have the money to buy it."

Recalls 1932 Disaster

The G.O.P. slogan "Had Enough?" should be applied by next week's voters to 1932 when the Republicans were in power, Lausche asserted, and they will "remember that then they didn't have enough and were losing homes and furniture."

Asserting that the Republicans are spending "a million dollars in Ohio to win Tuesday's election,' Lausche said he renounced "plenty of money" for campaign contributions from persons doing business with the state.

"My primary responsibility was to the people and not to the voluble pressure groups that appeared in Columbus attempting to coerce the execution of their views, regardless of merit," the governor said. "I have rejected demands of groups which are now hostile to me."

Thomas J. Herbert, Republican candidate for governor, told Toledoans he would carry Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) by 112,000 votes. Lausche won by 192,000 there two years ago.

Herbert aimed an oratorical shaft at Lausche's highway department which he said awarded only $12,000,000 in contracts out of $40,000,000 available and compared with $60,000,000 awarded in Pennsylvania.

FIRST AIR EXPRESS FLIGHT REENACTED

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Nov. 2—The first air express flight was reenacted yesterday when an army jet plane streaked over the original 65-mile route from here to Columbus in one-tenth of the time Phil Parmalee's Wright biplane required on Nov. 1, 1910.

Lt. Robert Hoover of Nashville, Tenn., a Wright field test pilot, roared over Port Columbus in his P-80 at 2:36 p. m., six minutes and 45 seconds after he left the Dayton runway.

Parmalee took 66 minutes for his first commercial air delivery. After his cargo, a bolt of silk valued at $1,000, was brought down safely in old driving park at Columbus.

Hoover carried a three-pound packet of silk for the same Columbus department store which received Parmalee's shipment, but after a 45-minute stopover flew back to Wright field.

The flight was a feature of National Air Mail week and part of a demonstration at Wright field for the new Institute of Aeronautical Sciences which is concluding a two-day conference today.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Treatment of Arthritis

Chronic arthritis or inflammation of the joints is a widespread, painful, and sometimes crippling disease. It is also something of a mystery, for, though its effects are well-known, its exact cause has never been determined.

As always, in such cases, treatment has been more or less on a trial-and-error basis, and doctors are continually on the lookout for new and better methods of relieving their patients, with the result that arthritis has been treated with everything from gold salts to cobra venom.

It is not surprising then, that during the last few years since vitamins have taken their place in the scientific limelight, they should have been tried for this disabling affliction.

In a recent survey of the subject, Dr. Cornelius H. Traeger of New York, declares that only one vitamin has been of value in treating arthritic patients, but that one is very beneficial.

He says that vitamin A has no place in the treatment of arthritis. Patients have been given large doses of it without any appreciable effect on either the severity or the course of the disease.

Vitamin B-complex also has been tried and it was found that none of the patients was benefited insofar as his arthritic symptoms were concerned by the use of this preparation, of any of the vitamins which make it up, such as vitamin B-1, niacin, or riboflavin.

The same thing seems to be true where vitamin C is concerned. This does not mean however, that if a patient with arthritis is suffering from definite symptoms indicating a vitamin deficiency, the proper vitamin preparations should not be taken under the directions of the physician.

Dr. Traeger has found that large doses of vitamin D, called electrically - activated vaporized sterol, have proved most helpful in the treatment of arthritis. He has not only given the preparation by mouth, but also by injection into a muscle. With the latter form of treatment no reactions occurred, such as headache or stomach upsets. At present, he is using both forms of treatment together, and finds that this is safe and causes no upsetting reaction.

At a result of the treatment of over 500 patients with chronic arthritis, over a period of eight years, he has come to the conclusion that vitamin D in the form mentioned is beneficial. Should any slight upsets occur as a result of its use, these may be relieved by reducing the dose or discontinuing the treatment for a time.

Thus it would seem that, of all the vitamins, the only one which appears to have any definite effect on arthritis is Vitamin D, or electrically - activated vaporized sterol. The other vitamins can only be expected to help if the patient has definite evidences of vitamin deficiency.

A school can be only as good as its teachers. With the ever increasing cost of living we must raise their pay or lose them. In replacing them it is likely that less capable and less efficient teachers would have to be accepted. This proposal is right, it's fair, it's just. Vote for it.

WE depend upon our teachers . . .

BUT, can they rely on US for an adequate living wage?

IMPORTANT NOTICE

TO VOTERS Waldo School District

Voters of the Waldo School District are being asked to support a 3 mill levy at the coming election Tuesday, Nov. 5th.

Your Board of Education is having to finance the school against rising costs of every item from fuel to textbooks.

In addition, the shortage of qualified teachers, and rising living costs make it necessary to adjust salaries to retain a qualified group of teachers, and other workers on a par with other schools.

Rising values of real estate are not reflected on the tax duplicate. The value of our district has changed but very little the past several years.

AVA GARDNER and Burt Lancaster portray dramatic underworld characters in "The Killers," a story by Ernest Hemingway. It will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace theater.

Screen Story of "The Killers" Coming To Palace Theater

Adapted from Ernest Hemingway's classic, "The Killers" was written for the screen by Mark Hellinger and tells a story of suspense and action. Starred are Ava Gardner, Edmond O'Brien, and the screen newcomer Burt Lancaster. It will be shown Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace theater.

The central figure in the melodramatic story is an insurance man, played by Edmond O'Brien, whose attempt to settle a small claim leads him to the uncovering of a long-disbanded group of criminals. Burt Lancaster is cast in the role of Swede Lunn, an ex-boxer, who falls into criminal ways over a woman, and who welcomes his own murder by professional gunmen. Kitty Collins, played by Ava Gardner is the weak and scheming girl who proves fatal to Lancaster.

The insurance adjuster who has been called in to settle a routine claim becomes curious about the claim, and a sense of justice drives him deeper and deeper into the case, which his bosses consider of little importance. He sends out word through underworld contacts that he is interested in all possible information about the murdered Swede Lunn. One interview leads to another until he finally solves the murder.

The latest Paramount News will be shown with the feature picture.

Wednesday only on the stage of the theater will be the famous road show production, Clarence Day's "Life with Father." In the leading roles are Brandon Peters and Alice Thomson.

Thursday through Saturday, a double feature, "Black Angel" with Dan Duryea, June Vincent and Peter Lorre, and "Scandal in Paris" starring George Sanders and Signe Hasso will be shown.

The former, a murder mystery, tells of the hunt for the murderer of a blackmailing night club singer. Kirk Bennett is accused of the murder but his wife, played by June Vincent believes him innocent and enlists the aid of Marty Blair, played by Dan Duryea, to prove it. By subconsciously reliving the night of the murder, the man who committed the murder realizes that he himself killed the girl and instantly goes to save an innocent man from death.

"If I'm Lucky" On Ohio Bill

The new musical hit, "If I'm Lucky," starring Vivian Blaine, Perry Como, Harry James and Carmen Miranda, is now playing through Monday at the Ohio theater.

This is the story of a girl vocalist, a shy and modest crooner, and an ambitious guy with a trumpet who find themselves all mixed up in politics and love, and is set against the background of an exciting election campaign. It tells of a band led by Harry James with Vivian Blaine and Carmen Miranda as featured vocalists, and of its efforts to win a big-name reputation. When unsuccessful in getting a radio program, the band finds itself the attraction at a series of political rallies, and even more popular when Perry Como becomes attached to the group.

At this point complications dedelop with Como being forced to run for the governorship with a good chance of winning, and the arrival of an offer for the band to have a radio show of its own.

John Garfield and Geraldine Fitzgerald are co-starred in the thrilling drama of love and adventure, "Nobody Lives Forever," which will be shown for seven days starting Tuesday. In the supporting cast are Walter Brennan, Faye Emerson, George Coulouris and George Tobias.

Miss Fitzgerald is cast as a glamorous young widow with too much money to keep her out of harm. John Garfield plays a recently discharged GI who tries to crash his way into the big money.

CABBIES SMASH COLUMBUS HILLTOP A. C.'s 13 TO 0

Visitors Fail To Live Up To Pre-Kickoff Expectations

By GEORGE ROSSY

Not weighing in at all close to their reported poundage, the Columbus Hilltop A. C.'s fought the Marion Safety Cab A. C.'s as best they could, although losing 13 to 0 at Harding stadium last night. A small gathering of about 1,000 was on hand.

Columbus also was handicapped by the fact that they seemingly were weak in the interpretation of how their own plays should have been run and that the Marion line kept them continuously rushed.

Cabbie Statistics

| | Marion | Hilltop |
|---|---|---|
| First downs | 3 | 5 |
| Firsts rushing | 2 | 1 |
| Firsts passing | 1 | 4 |
| Yards gained rushing | 77 | 50 |
| Yards lost rushing | 36 | 54 |
| Yards gained passing | 60 | 75 |
| Total net yardage | 101 | 71 |

The first half saw Marion pushing across two touchdowns and gaining a definite statistical advantage.

In the first half the Marion team piled up 63 yards rushing against a loss of 20 while the Hilltoppers were able to make only 12 yards while losing 22. In the second half the Cabbies got a net yardage of minus two while the Columbus club had 32 yards gained and 32 lost, making their total one large 0. In the air Marion made 60 yards to give them a total net yardage of 101 while Columbus gained 75 yards as a result of passes to give them a total net of 71 yards.

Passing Attack Clicks

Marion's passing attack was the more successful of the two, the Hilltoppers attempting 20 passes, completing only four while Marion completed three out of five.

The Cabbies received the kickoff, putting the ball in play on the Marion 34-yard line. After three plays they were forced to punt from their own 29, Columbus getting the ball on their 41. Left end Howard Richardson banged through the line to recover a fumble on the Columbus 33, setting up the first score.

Williams and Harvey got two each and right end Max Roseberry tried to make himself inconspicuous standing along the sidelines. Although the Columbus squad did not discover the sleeper until too late, the fans were holding their breath for fear they would be tipped off. Playing under center, Simmons threw the pass to the right flat, Roseberry received it in the vicinity of the 10 and sidestepped a secondary defender to score. Simmons kicked the point.

After both teams had possession of the ball Richardson once again recovered a fumble, this time on the Columbus 15.

Slips Across Line

On the next play Benson slipped across the goal line on the center play. However, the officials ruled the play was not executed properly, calling it back. Harvey passed from the spread formation to Roseberry on the 10 as the quarter ended.

Marion failed by inches to gain a first down and Columbus got the ball on their five. Able to make only two yards on three playes, Schlosser was rushed in getting off a punt the ball going only to the Columbus 17. For two plays it looked as if the Marion team might be going the wrong way and then Johnny Williams who was switched from fullback to right half for this contest went over right tackle, was seemingly nailed, but made 27 yards for the score. Harvey missed the attempt at conversion.

Columbus penetrated to the Marion 46 before losing nine, Dohlen punting to the Marion 14. Previous to this Columbus punts had been good for two and seven yards respectively. Marion lost to the ten and Ruhl punted to Russ Albin on the 50 for a 21 yard runback. Albin picked up one yard and threw a bad pass. Ruhl intercepted Schlosser's pass on the 15 getting to the 23. The half ended with Marion in possession of the ball on their own 25.

To start the second half, Harvey kicked to Herb Baird on the Columbus 28 for a runback of 12 yards. After making four yards Schlosser tossed one 12 yards to the Marion 44.

Schlosser again found a receiver, this time Janes snared one for 13 yards on the Marion 31. H. Baird made two. Schlosser attempting to pass again was rushed so hard that the ball had hardly left his hands before being blocked. Martin Lewis intercepted Schlosser's next pass on the 25 and got to the 27.

Ruhl Kicks

Ruhl kicked from the 15 to McCready on the 30 for a five yard runback. Dohlen got one and Higgins knocked down Schlosser's pass. Schlosser passed to Rick King on the 20 and he gained to the ten before being dragged down. Higgins was hurt on the play and helped off the field

After Albin had got nothing, Schlosser passed to Dick Jones, who was out of the end zone. Martin Lewis broke through the Columbus wall and threw Schlosser for a 13 yard loss Marion taking over on the Marion 24.

Janes recovered Belknap's fumble on the Marion 15. Marion held at that point and Ruhl quick kicked but Marion was penalized to the 10. The Cabbies tried a Statue of Liberty, fumbling, and Embelton recovered on the Marion five. Barnhart picked up three and the quarter ended.

R. Albin lost two, attempted to pass but Gilmore blocked it. Ruhl then sent a punt high above the lights and Russ Albin receiving on the Columbus 40 was almost knocked out when he partially caught the pigskin on his chin. Too groggy to stay on the field he left the ball game.

The last period produced more than enough thrills and unusual plays Simmons intercepted a pass on the Columbus 42 and almost ran over an official in getting to the 23.

Belknap passed to Richardson on the 10. However, because of offensive interference, Columbus got the ball on their own 10.

Schlosser was converged upon in attempting to pass and for intentional grounding of the ball, Columbus was penalized to the one yard line. Breaking the rules of sane football Columbus threw three straight passes from their own end zone, two being knocked down and the other dropped

Late in the period, Simmons reeled off 28 yards going to the Columbus 10. Simmons tried a quarterback sneak without interference and made nothing. After Belknap had picked up four making it fourth and six Harvey attempted a field goal from the right side. Columbus picked up 17 yards but a penalty and loss put them back on their 18 as the game ended.

CLEVELAND SEEKS 3RD WIN OVER BISON

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2—Cleveland Barons will seek their third straight victory over the Buffalo Bisons tonight in an American Hockey league clash.

The local skaters upset the Bisons, 5 to 3, two weeks ago and then handed them their first whitewashing of the season in Buffalo last Wednesday when they won a 2 to 0 decision.

Coach Fred (Bun) Cook told the team at its noon meeting yesterday that "If we can play the type of hockey we did last Wednesday night, we will be tough for anybody."

Defenseman Jim Drummond, recalled from Minneapolis Wednesday, will make his season debut with the Barons tonight, but Bobby Carse, who missed the last two matches because of a back injury will remain on the sidelines.

The two teams will travel to Buffalo for another game tomorrow night.

Forest Wins Mythical Hardin Championship

Special to The Star

KENTON—Forest High school won the mythical Hardin county football championship yesterday afternoon by defeating Ada 38 to 0 at Forest. Both teams had played Kenton to a tie in earlier games.

Hart playing left halfback only when his team was on the offense, scampered across the goal line for four touchdowns. Snider and Qualls added one each.

Forest served notice early in the contest that they were ready to go by scoring in the first two minutes after a long march down the field. The longest run of the game was made by left end Windle when he intercepted an Ada pass on his own 20 and ran to the Ada 20 before being downed. Hart carried over on the next play. Snider, Forest quarterback, kept Ada in the hole all afternoon with fine generalship.

Special to The Star

GALION — Galion came from behind to tie Willard in a Northern Ohio league contest at Willard last night 19 to 19 in a see-saw battle that saw several long runs and blocked punts and passes.

Snatches of Sports

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—Don't be surprised if Tommy Harmon turns up at fullback for the Los Angeles Rams some Sunday. The ex-sportscaster hasn't been doing too badly at halfback, but George Halas claims Tommy would be the third-best fullback in "T" formation football—ranking behind Bill Osmanski and Bronko Nagurski. And when Halas talks, National Football league coaches listen Penn State and Washington State plan to inaugurate a football series in 1947, playing the first game at Hershey, Pa.

When the Chicago Bears reached New York to play the Giants last week, each player was handed $13 50 to pay for his weekend grub. John Schiechl, Rudy Mucha and Fred Davis dropped into a broadway restaurant for Saturday lunch because Davis knew the manager and were so well fed for $1.75 that they decided to return for dinner. This time the tab was $8 90 a piece, which must have left them pretty hungry by Sunday night

Lead In Both Pro Divisions At Stake In Games Sunday

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—The lead in both divisions of the National Football league will be at stake tomorrow when the New York Giants, Eastern pace-setters, invade Philadelphia and the Green Bay Packers move in against the Chicago Bears, front-runners in the Western half of the professional circuit.

If Philadelphia's Eagles whip the Giants, they can take over the Eastern lead, but only if the Washington Redskins fail to get past the Pittsburgh Steelers in Pittsburgh. A Washington victory and a New York defeat would return the Redskins to the top spot.

The Packers, beaten twice in five starts, could move into the Western lead by beating the Bears, whose record includes three wins, a loss and a tie. The Giants, with four victories and one defeat, own the best record in the league. Washington has won three, lost one and tied one, while Philadelphia has won three and lost two.

In other National league games tomorrow the Los Angeles Rams, fourth-place team in the west, visit Detroit, whose Lions are in the Western cellar, and the third-place Chicago Cardinals invade Boston, last-place team in the East, for the only game involving clubs of both divisions.

Neither leader is in danger in the All-America conference, which scatters its games through the weekend.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Rockets, both operating under new coaches, were scheduled for a game in Chicago last night but it was postponed in mid-afternoon because of rain

The San Francisco 49ers, who knocked the Cleveland Browns out of unbeaten class last Sunday to leave both professional leagues without a single undefeated team, entertain the Buffalo Bisons today.

The Bisons have been doing some upsetting of their own, stopping the Rockets last week and the 49ers two weeks ago

The Browns, still well out in front in the Western division, will be at Los Angeles for a battle with the Dons tomorrow while the New York Yankees, firmly entrenched in the Eastern lead, entertain the Miami Seahawks.

2 MORE HIGH SCHOOL TITANS TAKE COUNT

Eight Major Ohio Undefeated Teams Remain on List.

By The Associated Press

Oakwood and Chaminade of Dayton and Campbell Memorial of Youngstown were jolted from the list of Ohio's unbeaten and untied major high school football teams Friday night, but at least eight other perfect records remained intact.

Unbeaten Lima Central made Dayton Oakwood No 8 on its list by a 54-6 score. Massillon's Tigers marred Dayton Chaminade's record of 16 straight 35 to 12. Youngstown East ended a Campbell Memorial victory string going back to 1944 with a 13-7 upset.

Upper Arlington and Grandview of Columbus, who clash next week, remained unbeaten and untied with eight victories apiece. Upper Arlington beat Washington Court House 25-6, and Grandview took Columbus St. Charles 19-7 Youngstown Woodrow Wilson stayed on the select list by beating Youngstown Ursuline 34-7. So did East Palsetine by whipping Louisville 20-6.

Cincinnati Purcell kept going a victory string dating back to 1943 by tripping Cincinnati Withrow 20-7, and two smaller schools added to long chains of consecutive victories—Lockland scoring its 18th straight by blanking Deer Park 25-0 and Elida chalking up No. 19 by walloping Pandora 73-0

Two teams with perfect records played their final games Thursday night Worthington's first unbeaten-untied eleven in the school's history copped the Franklin County Football League title by a 19-0 victory over Groveport, and Bluffton also scored its eighth straight victory and won the Western Buckeye League championship by downing Bellefontaine 21-7.

Sports-Dizzy Baltimore Set for Irish-Navy Tilt

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Nov 2—Already dizzy from Assault's surprise victory in the Pimlico Special yesterday, Baltimore sports fans went all the way 'round on the merry-go-round—today for the 20th collision of the football forces of Notre Dame and the Navy.

The sell-out crowd that packed Municipal Stadium until its seams were bulging was looking for no upset today in the second half of Baltimore's large weekend.

The Irish were 1-to-10 favorites to hand the Middies their fifth straight beating of the season.

Strong Columbus Aggregation Meets St. Mary Here Tonight

A strong Columbus St. Mary contingent will engage th local Irish gridders tonight at Harding stadium. The kickoff i scheduled for 8 15.

The Columbus team will run from the T formation, also use the shift which was perfected by Knute Rockne at Notre Dame Their backs, J. Herold, Cohler, Donnelly and Kurelic are all adep ball toters, Herold and Kurelic possessing two of the three letter awarded last year to members of this year's squad. The other letterman is Federer who draws the starting center assignment

Five Won, One Lost

Their record is five won and one lost They opened the season beating Groveport 24 to 6, then downed Springfield Central Catholic 19 to 7, Columbus Holy Family 13 to 0, Columbus South 19 to 6, Bexley 13 to 6, and last weekend dropped one to Columbus St Charles 13 to 12.

Last week's results proved the Columbus St. Mary squad is not invincible However, they probably will be keyed up tonight to play their best ball against Marion St. Mary Marion's chances are enhanced by the fact that they will have the services of all their team members for this contest. Up to the Lima St. Rose tilt they ha been handicapped because of injuries but against Lima, whe they presented their full strengt they held the favored St. Ros team to 6 up. Also they kept th Lima squad in the hole throughout most of the contest and mad several scoring bids but score only once on a blocked punt.

Irish Spirit Up

The Marion Irish spirit is un degree also because of their goo showing last week and the should be inspired for tonight game. Despite having a psychological advantage for this til Marion St. Mary will have to b rated as the underdog once more Columbus St. Mary has a smooth clicking outfit, having played an beaten some strong class A hig schools this season.

BILL VEECK LOSES INFECTED RIGHT FOOT

Tribe Prexy Makes Decision; Plans To Attend Parley.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 2 — The right foot of Bill Veeck, amiable president of the Cleveland Indians, was amputated yesterday at Cleveland Clinic hospital in an operation which ended nearly three years of treatments for an injury received by the ex-Marine on Bougainville.

Dr. J. A. Dickson, operating physician, reported that Veeck, who was laying plans for attending the winter baseball meetings at Los Angeles in December, was "resting quietly after a successful operation."

The fiery baseball executive's foot, crushed by the recoil of an anti-aircraft gun on Bougainville early in 1944, was removed at his request by an amputation six inches below the knee, Dr. Dickson said.

"Bill will be able to see a few visitors today and he'll be ready for an artificial foot at the end of three months," said the physician. "From then on it's up to him—but I see no reason why he can't attend the Los Angeles baseball meetings."

Veeck, who often suffered extreme pain in the shattered limb—but was seldom gloomy—made the decision that led to the amputation

"Confusion Bowl" Star

Here is Dick Enzminger, star punter on the Miami university team at Oxford, O., which will meet the University of Miami in the second "Confusion Bowl" game in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., on Friday night, Nov. 8. Last year the Miami, Fla., team won, 27 to 13, after the Redskins from Ohio had held a 13 to 0 halftime margin. The Miami team—Ohio, that is—has been beaten only by Purdue, 13 to 7, this season. Enzminger, a former Marine, is from Omaha, Neb., and was one of Miami's leading scorers in 1944 when in the V-12 unit.

Three Brothers Playing Roles Of Sons In "Life With Father"

For the first time in its long history "Life With Father" will have three brothers playing three of the four sons who figure so prominently in the play. When this famous comedy is presented at the Palace theater on Wednesday, Nov. 6, Donald, Richard and David Frank will portray John, Whitney and Harlan Day, whose youthful antics furnish much of the play's humor.

With the exception of their theatrical adventures Don, Dick and Dave—as they are known to their family and friends—have spent their growing years in New Brunswick, New Jersey, in typical fashion. Sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frank—their father is a photographer—they have been going to the local schools, have been Boy Scouts, have played baseball on sand lots.

Like most American youths they have been eager collectors. Dick has made a hobby of poisonous snakes. He not only studied them, he kept them at home.

Active in Sports

Don, the oldest of the boys, and a high school graduate, indulges not only in baseball but also in strenuous outdoor sports and boxing.

His high school career brought him into contact with the stage, and for his alma mater he appeared in such productions as "The Fighting Littles," "Letters to Lucerne," "Junior Miss" and "She Stoops to Conquer."

The youngest brother, Dave, has had his share of footlight experiences, too, taking part in shows put on by the Lincoln school which he attended.

It was Dick, however, who landed the three brothers their current assignment. Since he was seven he has devoted himself to playwriting. Not content with writing he took to acting and during the past summer played in "Kiss and Tell" at a professional summer theater in nearby Highland Park. His performance attracted the attention of a talent scout from the firm of Cargill, Ling and Jones, sponsors of this tour of "Life With Father," and he was asked if he would like to play in the nationally famous success.

Happy Over Offer

Dick was happy to accept. When he went to New York to sign a contract, he brought along his parents and brother Don. The producers took one look at Don and asked him if he would like to make the tour. Don proved quite as willing as his younger brother.

Mr. Frank, the father, [illegible] ingly remarked that he had two more sons at home who might complete the quartet of young actors required for "Life With Father." To his surprise he was taken seriously, with the result that Dave, the youngest boy, was subsequently tried out and found satisfactory for a third role.

Minister Says Next 5 Years Will Be Critical

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2—Some 7,500 educators brought their annual Central Ohio Teachers association convention to a close today after hearing Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of New York's Christ church, predict that "if we can keep our heads for five years, we will come through this war hysteria and get going on the road to constructive international cooperation."

Addressing the teachers at Memorial Hall last night, Dr. Sockman declared that a "long, devastating" war with Russia would "leave us with more Communism in the world than we have now," and added that "what the United States, Russia and Great Britain do in the next year or two will shape the course of human culture for decades to come."

CAREY KNOCKS OUT KENTON TEAM 12-0

Home Eleven Keeps Season Slate Clean.

Special to The Star

CAREY—Defeating the Kenton Wildcats 12 to 0 here last night, the Carey high school gridders continued their clean slate for the season. The Carey crew scored early in the opening quarter and late in the second stanza for two touchdowns and stopped all Kenton threats.

After receiving the kickoff Kenton carried to the Carey nine yard line where Brown fumbled and Carey recovered. A quick kick put the ball on the Kenton 15 yard line where a Wildcat lateral was intercepted by Carey. After driving for a first down Newell hit pay dirt from the four yard line for the first score.

With a Carey threat apparently stopped at the end of the second quarter the gun went off as a Carey passer let a wobbly pass fly as he was tackled behind the line of scrimmage but Strahn, left end, grabbed it in the end zone after the time was up and Carey had another score.

Neither team threatened in the second half.

The lineup:

| Carey—12 | Pos. | Kenton—0 |

Final Month Of Buckeye Grid Wars Gets Off To Good Start

By The Associated Press

Wittenberg handed Marietta a 7-0 homecoming setback, Findlay romped to a 41-0 victory over Bluffton, and Kent State blanked Kalamazoo College of Michigan 12-0 Friday night to start the final month of Buckeye college football.

At Marietta, the visiting Lutherans scored on a 24-yard pass from Gene Hannum to Emerson Poppler late in the first quarter. A Marietta drive that included a gain on a 27-yard pass, Bobby Weaver to Paul Glod, was cut short on Wittenberg's eight-yard line by the final gun. Each team made 13 first downs, but Wittenberg outrushed the Pioneers 209 to 170 yards.

Findlay scored five of its six touchdown and a safety in the last half of its home game in which six different Oilers crossed the Bluffton goal line. The longest scoring play was a 38-yard pass from Rome Busa to Walt Justice in the final period. A fumble by Findlay on the initial kickoff and a 40-yard run by Bill Boorse put Bluffton on the Oilers' five at the start of the game, but a field goal attempt missed and the visitors didn't get within scoring reach again.

In the only out-of-state contest involving an Ohio team, Kent State university's golden Flashes won their fourth in six starts at Kalamazoo. Quarterback John Moore shot a pass from the Kalamazoo three to end Pat Delvecchio in the end zone for a second-period goal, and halfback Bob Beechey rounded end on a reverse from the eight to score the game's other touchdown in the final two minutes of the last quarter. A 27-yard run by halfback Joe Markovich set up Beechey's touchdown. Kent made 11 first downs to the Michigan eleven's four.

MARKET RALLY HITS SOME DIFFICULTIES

By The Associated Press

NEW PORK, Nov. 2—The stock market had a little difficulty in extending its rally today although assorted favorites were fairly successful and losses generally moderate.

Profit cashing on the recent bulge, resumption of erratic movements by cotton and the trimming of accounts for a lengthy weekend received the principal commission house blame for the mild irregularity.

Dealings picked up at intervals. While slow periods were plentiful, volume of around 600,000 shares was the largest for Saturday since early last May. Generally narrow variations either way persisted near the close.

Among resistant issues were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, American Water Works, Public Service of N. J., Air Reduction, American Can, General Electric, Union Carbide, J. C. Penney and Southern Pacific.

Lacking sound bids were Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Western Union "A," Kennecott, International Nickel, Philip Morris, Westinghouse Electric, Texas Co., and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Bonds held to a slim route with a number of rails improving. Cotton and grains steadied toward the finish.

Among forward movers in the curb were Aluminum Ltd., Humble Oil, Louisiana Land, Middle West Corp. and United Light. Small minus signs were registered for Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share and Raytheon.

testants' parents. Most clever costume attempting a timely slant, however, was a small boy padded up to resemble a shoat and carrying a sign, "Pork, 25 cents a pound."

Costumes Confuse Judges

There were boys dressed as girls and girls as boys, and at one time, while awarding the grand prizes, the judges gave up and instructed all boys take a couple steps forward.

All contestants up to about the sixth grade got at least one prize, and most of the older children received something. The four grand prizes were a tricycle, a coster wagon, and boy's and girl's bicycles. About a half dozen in each grade were chosen to compete for one of the grand prizes or the approximately 15 special prizes. Each of those winners had already won a first prize in ols grade class. The final judging took place on a platform in front of the grandstand.

Roberta Ruth Debolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Debolt of 684 Marshall street, a six-year-old fairy Godmother, turned out to be just the right size for the tricycle.

Francis Mahoney, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mahoney of 223 Park boulevard won the coster wagon. He was dressed as a girl.

Bonnie Glasco, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glasco of 195 Dix avenue was awarded one of the bicycles. She was dressed as a gypsy fortune teller, in colorful costume, pasted with playing cards. Her facial make-up was appropriate and she continually shuffled a deck of cards and acted the part.

Wins Other Bicycle

Joe Sayre, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sayre of 473 North Greenwood street won the other bicycle. He was dressed in a white dress of about the turn of the century with hat to match, and a white wig. He won a first prize in his class on the the costume alone, for it was not until decisions were being made for the grand prizes that he informed the judges he was a boy.

The judging in each class was done on the racetrack in front of the grandstand, each group waiting in the infield until called. Co. M men assisted police in keeping the youngsters organized.

Chief of Police William E. Marks made a short address of welcome. E. H. Hoffman, chairman of the police department's prize committee, also spoke. They were introduced by Don Sherwood of WMRN, who acted as master-of-ceremonies. The Chuck Wagon Pals kept the ball rolling while the judging was being done.

After each group had been judged, the youngsters turned their attention to the 500 pounds of popcorn the police had popped for them.

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 — Fred Allen has gone the only way he said he could after topping the Hooper program report for the previous semi-monthly period—down. The latest checkup saw him drop to fifth, as Fibber and Moly shoved back into the lead, which they have held on various occasions in the past.

Reappearance of Bing Crosby in the ratings after starting his new recorded series was another factor affecting Allen. Bing got fourth. Also there was the development that moved Charlie McCarthy to second from fourth.

Freeman (Amos) Gosden and Charley (Andy) Correll learned recently that another set of twins—this time in Ottawa, Canada — have been named "Amos 'n' Andy." The famed NBC comedians have never kept an accurate check but they estimate there must be at least 100 sets of twins named after them since they started their famous program years ago.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

MY father patted my shoulder indulgently and smiled at me a bit quizzically. But I knew that my flattering comment had pleased him.

"I'll just see the caravan off," he said. "Perhaps you could give Katie any final instructions about supper while I'm gone?"

"I'll try not to keep you waiting," I told him, as I turned toward the kitchen where Katie had gone.

"I sure have to flax around now," she said, "und dot goot-fornotings Jeem shoost leave me in lurch, venefer car from city coom in sight. He tink he vun garage man straight from Hefen."

"Better from there than from the other place," Katie's husband, Jim, drawled as he came in from the store room.

Dicky and Harry Underwood aver that Jim should have strangled Katie with her own shoe laces long ago, but he evidently reads between the line of her atrocious badgering of him, and knows the true measure of her great devotion to him.

"You tink you dropped right in oder place, und beginning to singe yourself," she retorted, completely unperturbed by the fact that he had overheard her slurring remarks about him, "eef you no stir your stumps und help me get dees sooper on table. Me, I haf to get ready to serve twelve peoples, und dose rolls all got to be heated oop again, but no brown vun leetle bit more, und—how long before I got to serve supper?" she broke off abruptly, to my great relief.

Torrent of Words.

I had wondered just how I was to stem the torrent of her oral reckonings.

"About twenty minutes," I answered promptly.

"Und vot about trays?" she asked.

Involuntarily I looked around before I answered, then remembered that Helena and Carolyn Brixton were safely locked inside Lillian's room, and that I could speak freely. But I lowered my voice from sheer force of habit.

"There will be two trays with full meals going down to the secret room," I said.

"Two?" she repeated incredulously. "Eets dot old Lee Chow all vell again? He haf nodings but grooel und tea und broth for days."

Invalid Trays.

"No, you will have to fix up a tray of invalid food for him, after the doctor has seen him. And you will have to fix up another invalid tray for Mr. Brixton in my father's room. But you will be told about both of them, and you do not need to fix any noe of the four trays until after the supper is served."

"But who gets dot oder full-size meal?" she began, then clapped her hand over her mouth, looking at me in consternation. But I knew that her chagrin was for her own indiscretion, and that she cared no whit for her husband's quick, almost snarling, admonition.

"You'd better keep that mouth of yours shut, or you'll get yourself into big trouble," he said, but Katie loftily ignored him, and looked appealingly at me over her clenched hands covering her lips.

"Theres no reason why you shouldn't know who is down there, Katie," I said. "Jim probably knows already."

Avoids Flare-up.

"Your father told me," he said, with dignity, and I spoke quickly, to avoid any jealous flare-up on Katie's part.

"Mr. Jack Bickett came out with us in a policeman's uniform," I said, "and my father took him into the other part of the house. He will stay here for awhile, for the most part in the secret room, because—" I emphasized every word—"nobody outside our family must guess that he is here."

Katie's eyes were glittering with excitement as I finished, but her brain was functioning, as I realized from her answer.

"Better lock oop dose two Brixton vimmens in padded cell, den," she said. "Dey beegest snoopers in seven counties."
